About the volume numbers.

The volume numbering was originally tied to a calendar year. Years were eventually combined, and in 1951, the years were used on the books, e.g., 1951-1952. After 1974, this system was abandoned and a sequential system was used, picking up the implied numbers shown below.

Marked indicates the volume number(s) applied to the bound book. Sometimes more than one volume are contained in one bound book.

Implied indicates the numbers that would have been used for each volume if multiple years had not been included in the same book. This is the rationale for numbering the last three volumes 50, 51, and 52.

* These books actually use the year designations, e.g., 1951-1952.
