Society offers home for local archives

In your Dec. 5 article "Neighbors discuss idea of West End archives," I was disappointed to see no mention of the wonderful Kiplinger Research Library and archives here at the Historical Society of Washington, D.C.

The society's Kiplinger Library is already the home for the Dupont Circle Citizens Association records and Dupont Circle Conservancy records. For Foggy Bottom, special collections at the historical society fea-

Historical Society of Washington, D.C., has had the mission to collect and preserve this material for the use of the citizens of this city as well as for researchers in general. Anyone with access to the Internet may explore our collections via our online catalog (historydc.org/Do\_Research/research.arch.asp), which has pull-down menus for neighborhood inquiries.

The Kiplinger Research Library also offers helpful professional staff and a welcoming and well-appointed reading room in the historic Carnegie Building at 801 K St. NW at Mount Vernon Square. As of January, the library is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m.
